Mammoth, is back from his trip to Nevada and last evening he expected to go out to the mine where, he had learned, connections had been made on the 800-level with Grand Central workings, an object which the Grand Central has been working to attain for some time. These properties are now connected on both the 700 and 800 levels and the Grand Central, at any rate, has been anxious to see it accomplished on account of the big damage suit which it planted against the Mammoth a few months ago and which it is expected will come to trial this fall.

President McIntyre says he is ready to defend his right to mine the vein on which the Grand Central will try to recover damages at any time it is brought and he has to notion of seeking a postponement under any pretext. On what grounds the Grand Central hopes to recover he says he does not know. The plaintiff does not claim the apex to the vein and nowhere in its plea for damages does the company have a word to say concerning apex.

For all that, Mr. McIntyre declares, the apex question will come up without doubt, as he proposes to show that the Mammoth not only has the apex but that it has ore all the way down and is entitled to mine it. The breaking through of the Grand Central folks on the 800, he claims, only makes the Mammoth's case that much the strong-

Receiver Wing of Globe National Bank In the City.

Globe National bank of Boston, and a gentleman who was largely instrumental in saving the United States Mining company's identity by furthering the bonding scheme of liquidation when the crash came last winter is a guest at the Hotel Knutsford. When seen yesterday the visitor stated that he had just come down from the Couer d'Alene country where he had been looking after possible assets of the Globe bank. From here the gentleman will go to Breckenridge, Colo., and then on to the zinc-lead districts at Joplin, Mo., before returning home.

Being this far from home Mr. Wing said he could not resist the opportunity to visit the United States company's Bingham mines, not that he would be any the wiser, as he did not pretend to know anything about mines or mining, but because he wanted to see the ground which had caused so much commotion. He had hoped to be able to visit the Centennial-Eureka also, but he had been away from home so much

A BOOM IN SHIRT WAISTS. Manufacturers Are Preparing for

Enormous Output Next Year. (New York Tribune.) A decade ago the shirt waist was practically unknown. Today millions of dollars are invested in factories which make nothing else, and the out-Manufacturers of shirt factory machinery are already receiving big orders for fancy sewing machines, which will be needed to fill next year's demands from the thousands of "shirt waist men" who will join the little band of pioneers who had the nerve to take off their coats this summer. Importers and makers of shirtings announce an array of new designs and a range of colors which promise well for the variety of next season's goods.

It was about eight years ago that the manufacturers began to make shirt waists for women. Of course, women had been wearing them for some time before, but not in sufficient quantities to attract the attention of capital. Owing to the great comfort and utility of the shirt waist the growth of the trade has been phenomenal. The demand for soft shirts for men has increased in relative ratio.
